The Most Prestigious Honor a Freshman May Receive at the University of Georgia

To the Class of 2022:

Few people in the life of this college community could rival Dean William Tate in his love for his alma mater and his understanding of students. Dean Tate served as the Dean of Men at the University of Georgia from 1946 until 1971, but the title, “Dean of Men,” does not nearly capture all that Dean Tate was to the University. At his death, he was described as: “A recognized scholar, strict disciplinarian, uncompromising enforcer, caring counselor, sympathetic listener, opinionated and outspoken faculty member, dedicated churchman—he was more than an observer of change. He was a maker of history.”

With competence and integrity, William Tate dedicated his life to students and their needs. His keen mind and scholarly pursuits enabled Tate to understand the widely divergent aspirations of each student and the different cultures from which they each came. Dean Tate’s compassion and selfless love compelled him to give to the University of Georgia fifty years of service. His foremost contribution was motivating young college students and providing guidance in their lives.

This society strives to serve as a legacy of all that Dean Tate was to the University of Georgia by annually recognizing twelve men and twelve women of the freshman class who best exemplify the qualities Dean Tate possessed (though members of all genders are eligible for membership). More specifically, selection is based on achievement in scholarship, leadership, and service. Current Tate Society members are involved in every facet of campus life, and accepted applicants are expected to continue their contributions to the University throughout their college tenure. To be considered for membership, applicants must be full-time students in their first year at the university, having completed one semester at the time of consideration.

Tate Society carries an expected four-year commitment, with membership privileges extending for life. Meetings are usually held Sundays at 8:00 PM, though other frequent social and service events occur throughout each semester; attendance and participation are expected of each member, and membership requires a minimum commitment of 2 events each semester. Following initiates’ induction into Tate Society, this new class will be instrumental in executing this year’s Week of Service (April 8-12), in which all of Tate Society partakes. If selected as a member of the 2018 class, there is a one-time $50 membership expense with financial aid considerations available upon request.

Completed applications will be accepted until Friday, February 8th 2019 at 11:59 PM on the Tate Society’s website. Only digital (PDF) applications will be accepted. Please allow 48 hours for email confirmation of your application. After reviewing your application, we will notify you via email about first-round interviews, which are tentatively planned for February 25th-27th. We appreciate your interest in Tate Society and look forward to receiving your application.

If you have any questions regarding Tate Society or the application process, please contact us at ugatatesociety@gmail.com. Thank you and good luck!
